1921 HAZEL GLAB AND HER PRIZE WINNING CHOW

Hazel Glab owned two show chows and was part of a high profile murder case on the west coast.

There is no doubt the era of this image with her detailed classic "20's" attire....and check out those snake skin shoes!!

The above photo is antique and in my private collection. I did a bit of restoration work on this 8×10 press photo to remove some scratches and “noise”. The woman, Hazel Glab, was a flamboyant flapper, whose husband, John, died under mysterious circumstances June 18, 1928, at 12744 Ventura Blvd., in Studio City. Murder charges against her were dropped for lack of evidence the first time around at trial. Below I found an image in the Los Angeles Public Library that could very well be Hazel with 3 Chow dogs. CLICK HERE for a fascinating read about Hazel Glab’s life and trials.

Circa 1923 the Glab residence with what appears to be a woman (Hazel?) with 3 chows.
