

1922 C. Gardner Sullivan – famous screen writer with his
Chow “Ching” from Siberia

C. Gardner Sullivan, who wields the master pen of the screen and, incidentally, who is the highest paid screen writer in the world, has three hobbies: His Chow dog "Ching," the great out-of-doors, and his work. His dog "Ching" has been a "one-man" dog since his arrival at the Sullivan home from Siberia. Perhaps The TRIBUNE'S Scenario Stories may develop another Sullivan.

C. Gardner Sullivan was born on September 18, 1884 in Stillwater, Minnesota, USA as Crawford Gardner Sullivan. He is known for his work on All Quiet on the Western Front (1930), Alibi (1929) and Hell's Hinges (1916). SOURCE IMBD

This 1922 newspaper snippet makes me very curious , what part of "Siberia" this chow hailed from.
