circa 1915 WWI BRITISH RED CROSS NURSES & SOLDIERS

This very rare and unusual photograph in my personal collection features a woman in a fur coat, front and center, holding her chow, alongside a nurse holding another dog

chowtales.com

Further research and an AH HA moment as I was looking at the man behind the woman and chow....a light bulb turned on....this is Eleanor Roosevelt posing with the Red Cross and soldiers! Xtra special find!!

This is by far one of the most unique and amazing photos in my personal collection, I can't begin to tell you how intriguing this is to me....the story this tells just screams out for more research. Eleanor Roosevelt is in the center of the photo with her Chow? Was this a Red Cross aid or search dog...did the Roosevelts have a chow of their own. Eleanor Roosevelt did a lot of work with the Red Cross during WWI, so it comes as not surprise that this is her. Many peoples pets were donated to the war cause. I have first hand correspondence from the daughter of actor-director E.K Lincoln's, that her father donated many of his celebrated GREENACRE CHOWS to the war effort.

Behind the soldiers on the wall is a sign which reads "BRITISH RED CROSS SOCIETY", so this was obviously taken in England. At least I have a country to start searching for answers. The time frame was EXTREMELY early in the history of the Chow being introduced to England and America, which makes this even a more mystifying scene to have such a rare breed in this image. In England, as well as America there were a handful of breeders making a mark and importing from China including Lady Faudell Phillips and Mrs Granville Gordon.

UPDATE November 18, 2021 -Fast forward 3 years from this original archive entry (done in 2018)

Today I had another AH HAH moment that there may be a connection between this photo above with Eleanor Roosevelt and this chow she is with.

Below, this beautiful magazine cover circa 1915 is from the same year as the photo above. This well known magazine was called THE SKETCH and is from England. This was a "supplement" to the magazine highlighting the Red Cross efforts during WWI. How I would love to get a hold of an original copy of this issue for the ChowTales Archive and to read what is inside relating to this beautiful etching of a Red Cross nurse with a chow. Was a chow used as a prop because of the magazine cover, or could it be that the artist was inspired by the chow with the nurses and the visit from Eleanor Roosevelt? There may be no connection at all, or something very interesting. Any leads on where I might find an original copy please contact this admin!

ALSO FROM THE SAME DECADE, THESE FOUR KEY SIRES WERE CONSIDERED AMERICA'S FOUNDATION FOR THE CHOW BREED (ORIGINATING FROM ENGLISH/CHINA LINES)

1. CH. CHINESE CHUM (Owner: Mrs Proctor Blue Dragon Kennels USA) 48 lbs
2. CH. LORD CHOLMONDELEY (Owner: Mrs John Z. Adams USA) 54 lbs.
3. CH. WIN SUM MIN T'SING (Owner: Frank Hutton Win Sun Kennels USA)
4. CH. YUEY (Owner: Mrs Adnah Neyhart Cossack Kennels USA) 62 lbs
5. The first American Standard for the chow had only been penned a mere 9 years prior to this photo in 1906

Enlarging and cropping out the man and woman from the large photo reveal that this is certainly Eleanor Roosevelt . The man behind her looks quite a bit like Grover Cleveland, I'll keep searching for more clues as to who the many and woman behind Eleanor are !!!
