RESTORATION- Circa 1920s Officer with Smooth chow by line of automobiles- unique and rare.

Circa 1920s - Officer with ammo belt and his trusty smooth chow. This is a very unique and rare find to add to my "chows & autos" collection. I had to bite the bullet and negotiate for this beauty Heads up Bonnie and Clyde. There is a chow in charge!

I honestly did not think this stunning photograph would end up being in my collection. The price tag was far above what I have ever paid for a single snapshot, but I understood that the subject matter gave this image the triple threat of collector values. A uniformed officer, antique cars, cars and more cars...and a chow. NOT JUST A CHOW.. but a SMOOTH chow. A rarity in it's own right in the 1920s!

I watched this little image for many months , and finally decided to just make an offer i could afford with an explanation about the ChowTales Archive and the importance of the image. With a little back and forth negotiations.....I got it!!! You would have thought I had won the lottery I was so excited.

The image arrived in the mail this week and I immediately scanned it, did some contrast and cracks repairs and restoration and here they are in all their glory! I can't help but wonder, was this chow "on the job" chasing gangsters and raiding prohibition era speakeasiesor was he just a beautiful companion for this man? Are these cars parked at a police station, or just random cars on the street?

Can anyone help me ID the uniform or the cars? Any help would be most appreciated. This photo was purchased from a USA seller so I'm assuming this might be taken in America.
